

Scrunchie

BURRITO METHOD · ONE RECTANGLE · ABOUT 20 MINUTES

THE NUMBERS COME FROM designs/scrunchie-pattern.dc.html — the three-page pattern. This is the one-page workroom version of the same thing, plus the batch maths. Two documents, one set of numbers: change them together or they will quietly disagree.

5" × 26"	10"	1½"	2"
FABRIC STRIP · CUT 1	ELASTIC · ⅝" WIDE	SEAM ALLOWANCE	FINISHED BAND · ~3" LOOP

CONFIRM THIS ONCE AND I WILL WRITE IT IN: is 5" × 26" what you actually sew for the $6 shop scrunchie, or only the pattern's chunky version? The pattern was written for a beginner buying it, not for the shelf. The mug rug sheet was written at 6" × 9" and had to be rewritten to the real 10" × 7½" — the sheet follows what you actually make, never the other way round.

Cutting a batch

YOU MAKE THESE SIX AND ELEVEN AT A

TIME FROM	YOU GET	LEFT OVER
1 yard, 44" wide	8 scrunchies	A 10" × 44" strip — which is three hair whimsys.
½ yard	4	18" of the width unused; save it for bows.
A fat quarter	NONE	⚠ It is 22" long and you need 26". This catches everyone once.

Cut the strips ALONG the 44" width, five inches apart, and you take 26" off a 36" yard. Eight strips is 40" of the 44". The 10" remnant is not waste — it is exactly the width for whimsys at 3", so a yard of scrunchie fabric quietly makes three more things.

Watch for

Leave the 2" gap. It is not a mistake to tidy up — it is how the elastic goes in and how the tube turns.
A directional print runs AROUND the loop, not up it. If the print has a clear top and bottom, cut along the length instead and accept fewer per yard.
Overlap the elastic ½" and stitch it hard. A scrunchie only ever fails at that join.

Sewing it

TEN STEPS

1. Cut one strip, 5" × 26".
2. Fold in half widthwise, short ends together, right sides facing. Sew the short ends with a ½" seam to make a loop. Press the seam open.
3. Lay the loop flat with the seam centred, right side up.
4. Fold both long raw edges in to meet at the centre, so the seam is encased. That rolled bundle is the burrito.
5. Pin the long edge and sew a few inches at a time with a ½" seam, reaching inside to pull the bunched inner fabric through as you go — this turns the tube from within.
6. Keep going: sew a bit, pull more out, realign the raw edges, sew again — until about 2" from where you started.
7. Backstitch and stop, leaving that 2" open. Reach through and pull the rest out to turn it fully. Press.
8. Safety pin on the 10" elastic and thread it through the gap and all the way round.
9. Overlap the ends ½", stitch securely into a loop, and push the join inside the tube.
10. Tuck the raw edges in and topstitch the gap closed. Scrunch it evenly around the elastic.

$6 each, or 3 for $15. Roughly 20 minutes once you are cutting in batches, and it is the cheapest thing on the table that people pick up. No custom band on this sheet — the bands live in eight places and all eight change together. Read them off custom.html or the order form.
